Professional Development

Our pediatric occupational therapists, speech-language pathologists, and mental health clinicians provide on-site trainings for teaching teams on topics such as sensory and motor development, social-emotional learning, language development, and Reggio-inspired practice. See topics here.

Cost: $950 Members: $900

Community Workshops

Our Community Workshops bring families, caregivers, and educators together to bridge the gap between home and school. By exploring meaningful topics related to child development, we help everyone build a shared understanding, develop practical strategies, and create a more consistent, supportive approach to helping children thrive across all environments. See list of topics here.

Classroom Environment Design Consultation

Our pediatric occupational therapist will visit your site to collaborate with you in designing, redesigning, or rearranging your classroom environment to support the developmental needs of the children who use it. The classroom itself is often considered 'the third teacher,' which is why creating an inclusive, developmentally appropriate space is so essential for growth and learning.

Collaborative Classroom Coaching- (in-person consultation)

Our SDC consultants work alongside teachers in the classroom to turn developmental knowledge into practical, everyday strategies. Through observation, real-time reflection, collaborative brainstorming, hands-on modeling, and real-time coaching, we help educators better understand and respond to children's social-emotional, behavioral, sensory, and regulation needs.

Coaching is tailored to each classroom's unique needs and may include strengthening routines and transitions, modeling co-regulation strategies, supporting individual children, and building consistent approaches to classroom challenges. Consultants may also facilitate small-group or whole-class social-emotional learning experiences, incorporating tools such as Zones of Regulation, Kimochis, and mindfulness.

Our goal is to empower teachers with the understanding, confidence, and practical tools to create supportive, responsive, and developmentally appropriate classroom environments.
