Making Classrooms Inclusive

Our Pediatric Occupational Therapist will come on-site, observe the classroom, and partner with the teaching team to reach their goal of supporting individual children for whom the school aims to create a more inclusive environment. Our recommendations not only address the specific child's needs but also enhance inclusivity for all current and future students.

Includes: Meeting with the OT and teaching team, observation of the classroom, a written report with concrete recommendations, and a meeting with the teaching team to discuss the report and review implementation strategies. Cost: $850

"There are countless ways to modify a classroom environment to meet the needs of diverse children. With the expertise of a pediatric occupational therapist, teachers gain valuable insight into making small but impactful changes to both the physical space and the relational milieu.

Pack of Consultation Hours

Purchase a pack of hours that your teaching team can use anytime to consult with our Pediatric Occupational Therapist, Speech-Language Pathologist, and Mental Health Clinician about ANY topic.

Access to our Content

SDC's team of Pediatric Occupational Therapists, Speech-Language Pathologists, and Mental Health Clinicians have created (and continue to create) a ton of amazing handouts for teachers and families. Teachers use these handouts as guides, in their classrooms, and share with families looking for support for their children. Annual access: $250/year.

Classroom Environment Design Consultation

Our pediatric occupational therapist will visit your site to collaborate with you in designing, redesigning, or rearranging your classroom environment to support the developmental needs of the children who use it. The classroom itself is often considered 'the third teacher,' which is why creating an inclusive, developmentally appropriate space is so essential for growth and learning."

We help with new construction- we help you design it all from the ground up!

Making Classrooms Connected

Our mental health clinician comes on-site to observe the classroom and partner closely with the teaching team to strengthen connection, communication, and relationships within the group. This service focuses on supporting individual children for whom the school aims to enhance emotional safety and relational attunement—while also elevating the overall relational climate for all current and future students.

Includes: A meeting with the clinician and teaching team, an in-class observation, a written report with concrete recommendations, and a follow-up meeting to review strategies, discuss implementation, and reflect on teacher-child interactions. Cost: $850

Classroom Screeners

We offer screenings for children age 3-5 in the preschool setting. Our pediatric occupational therapist, pediatric speech-language pathologist, and mental health clinician will observe small groups of children to screen for:

- | | | |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------------|--------------------|
| • Receptive/expressive language | • Personal Independence | Cost: |
| • Articulation/speech Sounds | • Emotional Regulation | 1-8 kids $1,000 |
| • Voice | • Social communication | 9-12 kids $1,350 |
| • Fluency/Stuttering | & engagement | 13-16 kids $1,800 |
| • Sensory Processing | • Play skills | 17-20 kids $2,125 |
| • Fine/gross motor skills | • Self-regulation skills | 20-24 kids $2,550 |
| | • Adult and Peer interactions | |

The screening will be conducted through a combination of small group, individual tasks, plus classroom observation. The goal is to identify children who may benefit from a comprehensive assessment and early intervention services. Parents will receive a letter indicating whether or not further assessment is recommended for their child. Teachers will receive a summary of general classroom trends that can help guide lesson and curriculum planning.
